Puzzled By Criticism

Eisenhower To Reply

HONOLULU (AP) — President Eisenhower talked with Vice President Richard M. Nixon by phone Thursday and then was reported "puzzled and amused" by some Democratic criticism of his Far East journey.

The President will give a 30-minute television-radio report Monday night on his trip, shortly after returning from his Hawaiian vacation. The White House said it would be carried live coast-to-coast by most networks at 7:30 p. m. EDT. Eisenhower, amid signs he intends to strike back at the Democratic charges, gave Nixon a confidential report on his controversial journey.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower discussed with Nixon both the speech and the journey, which was blighted by Eisenhower's need to cancel his scheduled visit to Tokyo.

It was his first contact with Nixon since he set off on his 23,000-mile tour 12 days ago.

At a news conference, Hagerty was asked about Eisenhower's reaction to criticism by some Democrats about the alleged faulty planning involved in the Tokyo visit. Hagerty replied:

Urged His Trip
"He is somewhat puzzled and amused that some of these same gentlemen were saying before the trip it would be a catastrophe if he didn't go to Japan," Hagerty replied.

Hagerty did not identify the Democratic critics. Eisenhower talked with Nixon before setting off on his latest round of golf. Hagerty said the conversation was "a discussion of the trip and what he would have in the report."

The President also talked on the phone this morning with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. Hagerty said this involved routine State Department business.

Hagerty again declined to set a departure date for Eisenhower. His Monday night speech date, however, makes it likely he will leave aboard his jet either Saturday or Sunday.

Eisenhower sidestepped any comment on the resignation announcement of Japanese Premier Nobusuke Kishi, the man who reluctantly decided it would be too risky for the President to visit Tokyo June 19-22 as scheduled originally.

Two Men Killed On Test Flight

JERSEY SHORE, Pa. (AP)—A light plane on a test flight crashed and burned on a mountainside nine miles north of here Thursday, killing the two occupants.

Cpl. Earl Moore, state police investigator, identified the victims as Charles Wersinger, about 27, of Jundelake, Carbon County, and Kline Lockard, about 45, of Montoursville, Pa.

Howard Graves, manager of the Piper Aircraft Corp. airport, said the two had taken the single-engine Piper Comanche on a test flight. He said they had enough fuel for a 1½-hour flight.

Congo Leader Wins Support Of Top Rival

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP)—Nationalist leader Patrice Lumumba announced Thursday night he has won the support of his major rival, Joseph Kasavubu, in forming the Congo's first independent government.

The announcement came in advance of a Parliament meeting called to endorse the Lumumba Cabinet.

With the backing of Kasavubu's powerful Aboke group, which controls the entire Lower Congo area, Lumumba seemed assured of heading the regime taking over from Belgian colonial rule a week hence.

Lumumba notified Belgian Minister Ganshof Van der Meersch that he won Kasavubu's support after agreeing to include three Aboke leaders in his Cabinet, including Pascal Nakayi as finance minister.

The government will be composed of 22 ministers and four secretaries of state.

The political situation has been confused for weeks with the inability of Lumumba and Kasavubu, the country's two strongest leaders, to reach agreement. Regional interests, a dispute over centralism versus federalism and bitter personal ambitions divide the two camps.

Cause Determined

Does Nothing About Return Of Eichmann

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council decided Thursday Israel acted illegally in gaining custody of Adolph Eichmann. But the council sidestepped any direct call for his return to Argentina.

By a vote of 8 to 0 with 2 abstentions, the 11-nation council approved a mildly worded Argentine resolution aimed at soothing that country's feelings over the secret transfer of Eichmann to Israel to face war crimes charges.

Poland and the Soviet Union abstained. Argentina obtained permission not to vote since it was one of the parties involved in the dispute. Israel is not a member of the council.

Orders Reparations
The resolution called on Israel to make adequate reparations for violating Argentine sovereignty.

But Mario Amadeo, the Argentine delegate, refused to say flatly if he meant by this the return of Eichmann to Argentina.

The United States and Britain made clear they did not see any mandate for Israel to return Eichmann, as had been demanded by Amadeo in a speech to the council Wednesday.

Both Israel and the Soviet Union challenged Amadeo to clarify his country's position on this point. Amadeo replied that once the resolution was adopted, it was up to Israel and Argentina to examine it and take the necessary measures for its implementation.

Most delegates took the view that the council had disposed of the Israeli-Argentine dispute, and it was now up to these two nations to settle any remaining differences in private consultations.

As one leading Western diplomat summed it up: "Argentina got approval of her resolution and Israel gets to keep Eichmann."

Israel readily admitted during the two-day debate that Argentine law was violated when Eichmann was seized in Buenos Aires last month and taken to Israel to face charges of being a top Nazi who played a leading role in the killing of six million Jews during World War II.

Before the vote, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made clear the United States believes the resolution contained no call upon Israel to return Eichmann to Argentina.

Lodge said the United States considers that adequate reparation will have been made by the expression of views in the council and the apology given by Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir for violating Argentine law.

"We therefore think," Lodge said, "that when we have adopted the pending resolution 'adequate reparation' will have been made and that the incident will then be closed."

"The normal and friendly relations between the two governments can then progress."

Walter Asks Red Lawyers Be Barred

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) proposed legislation Thursday to bar Communist lawyers from practicing in federal courts, government agencies and before congressional committees.

Walter, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said a bill he is introducing would apply to identified party members.

"A Communist," he said, "operates under an iron discipline which places his party's subversive purposes above professional and personal loyalties."

Judges Urged To Avoid Politics

SPRING LAKE, N. J. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Bar Assn. Thursday concluded a four-day summer meeting with a resolution calling on judges to restrict their political activities.

The action was taken in the form of a resolution re-endorsing canon 28 of the judicial ethics of the American Bar Assn. Canon 28 says judges should avoid making political speeches (except in their own campaigns). The canon also calls on judges not to participate in political convention or seek contributions for political parties.

NAVY SHOWS OFF ITS ANTI-SUB PUNCH—A Navy HS-1 helicopter (top) dangles sonar equipment in the sea near the submarine Darter in a demonstration off Key West, Fla., of latest anti-submarine procedures. At bottom, the U.S.S. Norfolk fires an Asroc (anti-submarine rocket), into a half-mile-high arc. The missile shed its booster, was lowered into the sea by parachute and sought out its target, an atomic submarine. A minute and a half elapsed between the Asroc's launch and the kill.

87 Delegates In N.Y. Pledged To Sen. Kennedy

By The Associated Press

SEN. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts Thursday made his longest stride yet toward the Democratic presidential nomination, clinching at least 87 of New York's 114 votes in the national convention.

The front-running Kennedy could also be encouraged by news from Wisconsin and New Jersey, where there was talk of giving him votes that had been headed elsewhere.

New Yorkers who'll represent their state at the Los Angeles Democratic convention next month met at Albany and pledged 87 votes to Kennedy. In addition, he was promised, but not definitely pledged, 4½ more.

Kennedy now has to his credit 484 of the 761 votes needed to nominate, on the basis of primary results, delegation pledges and preferences expressed by delegates in Associated Press polls.

While the pro-Kennedy developments dominated the Democratic side of the national political picture, there were two major developments among the Republicans.

He To Reply
1. President Eisenhower was reported planning to fire back at Democrats who have criticized his Far East trip, and the planning or lack of planning that went into it.

He was reported to have very much in mind the charge that the administration fumbled the nation into the embarrassing situation attending cancellation of his visit to Japan.

2. Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, announced he would accept his party's nomination for vice president if it came his way.

Morton has been mentioned many times for the No. 2 spot on the ticket to be headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Another possible choice of the Republicans for vice president, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, made a speech in Texas.

One point he offered was that derogatory talk about the state of the nation's defenses is "political claptrap."

But Seaton also said Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is "one of the greatest living Americans."

Johnson picked up 2½ votes in the New York delegation, raising his total in the unofficial tally to 202½. He ranks second to Kennedy.

Two For Humphrey
The New Yorkers gave two votes to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who has withdrawn from the race for the nomination, and one vote each to former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Delegates accounting for the remainder of New York's 114 votes were absent or abstained from voting.

In New Jersey, the closest political adviser to Gov. Robert B. Meyner—Robert J. Burkhardt—said New Jersey's 41 convention votes should switch to Kennedy now.

The votes are pledged to Meyner on a favorite son basis, but Burkhardt said he doesn't think Kennedy can be overtaken by anyone.

In Wisconsin, a leading Humphrey supporter, Carl F. Lauri, said that if Humphrey's name is not put before the national convention, he and at least four other Wisconsin delegates will vote for Kennedy on the first ballot.

Hawaii Is First

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii Thursday became the first state to ratify the constitutional amendment giving District of Columbia residents the right to vote for president and vice president.

The move was accomplished by forwarding documents with blank dates from Washington to Tokyo before ratification.

Township Residents Complain About Road In Chestnuthill

TWO RESIDENTS of Chestnuthill Township have complained to the county commissioners about road conditions in the township.

One such complaint was received by County Commissioner Stanley Rader in a letter written by Mrs. Helen Bildeau, owner and operator of Brookmouth Acres.

In their letter to Mrs. Bildeau, the commissioners said the road is a township and they have no jurisdiction over roads in that class. They also notified Merwine of the complaint and asked that he take action.

Rail Firemen Agree To 4 Percent Hike

CHICAGO (AP)—A one-year wage dispute between the nation's railroads and the 45,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen—the nation's largest railroad operating union—Theodore Short, a spokesman for the carriers' Conference Committee, said the railroads agreed to the four per cent boost because it followed the pattern set June 3 by an arbitration board in the engineers case.

Short estimated the new agreement would cost the railroads 13 million dollars a year.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the union, later issued a statement saying that "to class the increase as adequate would be an overstatement. But it does provide monetary improvements to help meet the spiraling cost of living."

Eleven non-operating unions, with 350,000 members who perform off-train tasks, also have yet to reach wage agreements with the railroads.

Under terms of the agreement, two per cent of the wage increase will go into effect July 1, 1960; the other two per cent on March 1, 1961. The workers now average $2.53 an hour.

The union, on June 15, 1959, had asked for a 14 per cent wage increase. The railroads proposed a 15-cent-an-hour wage reduction.

The wage contract will run through Nov. 1, 1961. It also calls for incorporation of the 17-cent-an-hour cost of living adjustments since May 1957 into the basic wage rate, and cancellation of the cost of living escalator clause.

High Wheat Parity Defeated In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, in a surprise action Thursday, defeated a wheat bill to raise price supports and cut the acreage. As a result, there is little chance of any new wheat legislation this year.

Republicans joined with most Democrats to turn down the bill sponsored by Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.).

The bill had the backing of most Democrats on the House Agriculture Committee. It would have raised the price props for wheat from the present level of 75 per cent of parity to 85 per cent and reduced wheat acreage by 20 per cent. Parity is a calculated price level deemed fair in view of a farmer's operating costs.

Huge Surplus
Wheat is the major farm problem today. Stocks on hand total more than 1,300,000,000 bushels. The expected large 1960 crop is likely to add up to 200 million bushels to the surplus.

Rep. Harold Cooley (D-N.C.), chairman of the Agriculture Committee, asked by reporters whether there is any chance of reviving wheat legislation, replied, "I certainly do not think so."

"The House," Cooley added, "apparently is not in the mood to do anything about the ever-in-

KOREAN WAR STILL 'ON'—This scene recalls the Korean fighting of a decade ago, a war you think of as being over but which actually still is "on." A truce was signed July 27, 1953, but the truce line still bristles with guns from both sides. The Korean war, technically a U.N. police action, started June 25, 1950, when Communist-led North Korean forces swarmed south across the 38th parallel. Both sides got to the far ends of the land in the action that followed.

'Two For The Seesaw' Opens At Playhouse Monday

"TWO-FOR the Seesaw," the popular Broadway comedy hit, starring Jeffrey Lynn and Sheila Copelan, will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse, in Mountaintop, beginning Monday, June 27.

The plot of "Seesaw" is a simple and bitter-sweet story of a man and girl, each living alone in New York, who get together through a chance telephone call. She is a city bred girl, both wise and innocent for her years and he is Nebraska on the lam from an estranged wife. The ending is not the sugary affair one might expect, but it is both intelligent and right and packed with humanity and humor. To quote a New York critic: "Two for the Seesaw" is one of the season's blessings.

Lynn is far from being a stranger to Pocono Playhouse audiences, having had starring roles in "Two Blind Mice" and "The Caline Mutiny" in former seasons.

Best known for his success in films, he elicited in such pictures as "Yes, My Darling Daughter," "Four Wives," "All From L.A. Heaven, Too," and "Underground," among many others.

Following World War II, he came back with even greater acclaim in such films as "A Letter to Three Wives," "Black Bart" and "Up Front." He is also well known to TV audiences. He comes direct to the Playhouse from starring in a National tour of "Seesaw."

Sheila Copelan, co-starring with Lynn, has also just completed a National tour in "Two for the Seesaw," in which she costarred with Hal March. Miss Copelan's dramatic credits include roles in such TV programs as "You are There," "Mr. Peepers" and "Frontiers of Faith." She was in the Theatre Guild's Broadway tryout of "With Respect to Joey" and in the off-Broadway productions, "What Price Glory," "The Miser" and "Song of Songs." Her current successful run in "Seesaw" has proven her to be one of the theatre's top young actresses.

"Two for the Seesaw" will continue through Saturday night, July 2, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Reservations for seats may be made by phoning LY 5-7496 or at Playhouse box-offices in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Honesdale.

Dr. Bauer To Speak At BBF Church

IN the Berean Bible Fellowship Church, 23 S. 6th St., Dr. Charles G. Bauer, pastor emeritus of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, of Camden, N.J., will be the speaker at both the morning and evening services.

Dr. Bauer holds a B.D. degree from Temple University and has done major studies in Biblical prophecy. He was on the faculty of the Bible Institute of Pennsylvania for four years and has preached in many parts of the world including London, Rome, and the Holy Lands. He has also written a book and many pamphlets.

Sunday School will start at the regular time of 9:30 a.m. and will be followed by the morning worship at 10:35. During the evening service, Dr. Bauer will show slides of his trip to the Holy Lands and comment upon them. The public is cordially invited.

Order Workers Reinstated

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An arbitrator yesterday ordered reinstatement of three men whose discharge was a major cause of a two week strike at the Westinghouse Electric Corp. in suburban Lester last month.

Some 6,500 production and maintenance workers were on strike from May 13 to May 31. The union, local 107, United Electrical Workers, claimed 51 unresolved grievances caused unrest which led to the walkout.

Francis J. Bradley, union business representative, said arbitrator Samuel H. Jaffe of Washington ordered suspensions of 90, 60 and 30 days on the men fired. The suspension start from the date of discharge.

Widow Killed Aiding Man

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A 59-year-old Jessup widow, trying to help her coal delivery man, was killed Thursday when a coal bin wall collapsed and buried her under four feet of concrete blocks and coal.

Mrs. Mary Zavada was believed to have been killed instantly. The delivery man, Palmer Geroulo, about 40, also of nearby Jessup, was buried to his chest in the avalanche of coal but escaped serious injury.

Mrs. Zavada was pronounced dead by Dr. E. R. Simpson, Peckville, minutes after a priest administered the last rites of the Catholic Church while workmen were still shoveling coal from atop her body.

Since this is an honorary position, a high school scholastic average was necessary for eligibility for election.

Judy is a graduate of Southern Wayne Joint School, where she was an honor student and was active in school and extracurricular activities.

State Senators Okay Jap Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania's two senators Wednesday endorsed the security treaty with Japan, for which they could not vote because of attending a colleague's funeral when the Senate passed it 90-2.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D) and Sen. Hugh Scott (R), were assigned to represent the Senate at the funeral of Rep. Douglas Elliott (R-Pa.).

Clark linked his endorsement of the treaty with a plea for "an understanding heart" for the strong neutralist sentiment he said has become evident in Japan, along with the opposition Japanese Communists are leveling at the treaty.

Scott, who said he drove the first U. S. Navy jeep into Tokyo after the landing of the occupation forces in World War II, said he has "grown to love the Japanese."

He said he hoped ratification of the treaty would bring a subsidence of disorderly demonstrations in Japan against it.

"We need the Japanese on our side as much as they need us," Scott said.

Scott also paid a tribute to Elliott, whom he described as "a man of wonderful, magnetic personality."

Miner Near Retirement Killed

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Thursday was to have been the retirement of John Kurilla as a hard coal miner after 40 years of digging anthracite.

Wednesday night, the 63-year-old Kurilla was in the Eddy Creek Colliery of the Hudson Coal Co. at nearby Olyphant. Suddenly the roof collapsed, fatally crushing Kurilla.

A fellow laborer, Raymond Ritter of Olyphant, suffered bruises of the leg.

The tragedy cut short Kurilla's plan on retirement to visit his native Czechoslovakia with his wife.

Miss Pocono Mountains Seeks Title

By Ira Culbertson Miller

A TALL, dark haired, brown eyed Miss Pocono Mountains tonight begins competing for the Miss Pennsylvania title as 20 of the Commonwealth's top talented beauties seek the crown and the right to participate in the Miss America finals.

Beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of West Chester public schools, 10 finalists will be selected by a panel of judges who will not announce the names of the finalists until Saturday night.

Points are allocated on a basis of 25 percent to appearance in a swimming suit, 25 percent to appearance in an evening gown and 50 percent for the three-minute talent performance of the contestants.

Joan Hinsdale, a junior at East Stroudsburg State College is representing the Poconos, having won the title of Miss Pocono Mountains at the recent contest held in the local college auditorium under the auspices of the Stroudsburg Business and Professional Women.

She will give as her talent performance, a talk entitled "Why I Chose Teaching as a Career" at which time she will appear in a formal blue satin gown by Gotha. The gown, a princess style, has wide overlapping shoulder straps, and will be worn with a white net stole, rhinestone earrings, long white gloves, and high heel slippers of clear plastic material.

One Piece Suit
In the swim-suit competition, Miss Hinsdale, who measures 34-24-35 will appear in a one-piece white bathing suit with straps and matching high heel pumps. No ornaments are allowed on swim-suits, and the suits must have straps and be of a solid color in black, white, or pastel.

In the evening gown competition, Miss Hinsdale will appear in another David Gotha creation, a Paris original, with V-shaped back bodice and gathered full skirt which falls into a short train as it sweeps the floor. The gown, a strapless peau de soie in white, possesses a flattering bosom line consisting of folds of material attached to a fitted underside which hugs the body tightly as the folds fall flatteringly across the bustline. The simple, but stunning waist of the dress is beautifully designed to fit into the overall splashing of rhinestones, sequins and tiny imported tear-drop prisms caught by invisible threads, giving the effect of being held by the imagination as a cleverly applied white velvet ribbon is tied in a make-believe bow, streaming down the front of the gown.

No Jewelry
There will be no jewelry worn by Miss Hinsdale, other than sparkly earrings, and the Miss Pocono Mountains bracelet inscribed with her name and given to her and all contestants in the local contest.

She will wear the Miss Pocono Mountains banner wherever she appears in West Chester during her stay and a special automobile with Miss Pocono Mountains insignia complete with chauffeur, is at her disposal this weekend.

Mrs. George Hinsdale, mother of Miss Pocono Mountains, will serve as official chaperone. All contestants have their mothers or family friend as a chaperone during the Miss Pennsylvania Week. They are housed by residents of the community, but meals are eaten at various hotels, restaurants, and dining rooms in a group.

Should Miss Pocono Mountains win the title of Miss Pennsylvania, she receives a four-year gubernatorial scholarship to either Temple University, University of Pittsburgh, or University of Pennsylvania in addition to $1,000 of the $3,000 Pepsi-Cola award, and the right to visit for the Miss America crown.

This is part of the presentation of awards for the winner of the state crown-holder, while

Two Local Girls In Exercises

TWO LOCAL girls will be among the sixty four students participating in the capping exercises of the Abington Memorial Hospital School of Nursing to be held Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the Abington Presbyterian Church.

Miss Inez Kainberz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kainberz, 124 Lee Ave., Stroudsburg, and Miss Jane C. Miller, of Pen Argil are members of the freshmen class.

Guest speaker will be David George Moyer, M.D., Associate Director Obstetric Clinic, Abington Memorial Hospital and Director of the Tumor Clinic, Jeanes Hospital.

Dr. Moyer was recently featured in the television documentary "MD-USA" which was shown on a national TV network.

Two Persons Hurt In Accident

MILFORD—Two persons were slightly injured in a two-car accident on Route 962 two miles south of here at 12:35 a.m. yesterday.

State Police here identified the driver as Michael Palmer, 16, Cummins Hill, Pike County. His passenger was Arthur Cottrill, 16, Milford.

Cottrill was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, in the Milford Fire Dept. ambulance and was treated for cuts on the chin and body bruises. Palmer had a bruised knee.

Troopers said Palmer told them he swerved the car to avoid a deer crossing the highway, lost control and left the road.

Krawitz Will Be Guest Speaker

SIDNEY L. Krawitz will be guest speaker today at 8 p.m. at the annual meeting of Tock's Island Property Owners Association in the Bushkill Fire House, said Kimmie Garris, president, last night.

Krawitz will present an up-to-date account of information from a recent meeting in Washington, D.C.

All members are urged to be present.

Three runners-up and "Miss Congeniality" share in the cash awards. Last year, Miss Pocono Mountains was the recipient of two state awards, totaling $500 in addition to the $200 local scholarship.

Anyone wishing to send greetings or messages to Miss Pocono Mountains may do so by addressing same to her in care of the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant Headquarters, West Chester

YOUNG ANGLERS—Jill Hornbreck, 7, of 80 Elk St., East Stroudsburg, and Tommy Choy, 9, of 196 Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg, with two large mouth bass caught yesterday in a private lake in Sciota. Jill's catch weighed four and one-half pounds, and Tommy's tipped the scales at four and three-quarter pounds. They were accompanied by Andrew Choy.

Hintze Named President Of TB Society

ELWOOD HINTZE was elected president of the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society at a meeting of the board of directors last night.

He succeeds Dr. Paul Shiffer. Other officers are Mrs. Doris Urice, vice president; Dr. Robert Brown, secretary; Leon Koster, treasurer, and Mrs. Alexander Coles, Monroe County representative to the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society.

The executive committee will include the officers, Shiffer, C. R. Bensinger and Carl Secor.

Named to committees were Dr. Shiffer, chairman; Dr. James Kitchen, III, Dr. M. J. Leitner, Russell Knerr and Arthur Snee, case detection committee; Howard Keiper, Jr., chairman; Raymond Price, Jr., Jonas T. May, M. E. Leffler and Elwood Huffman, publicity; and Horace G. Heller, and Mrs. Joseph Shukatis, co-chairmen; Mrs. Nelson Beers, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. Warren Mikels and Mrs. Van D. Yetter, seal sale.

$11,683 Collected
Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary, reported $11,683 collected during last year's Christmas Seal sale, the largest amount ever raised here. On a per capita basis, Monroe County ranked third in the state.

Reporting on the tuberculosis testing program in the county's schools, Mrs. Fleming said a total of 473 pupils were tested with 23 showing a reaction. Follow-ups on the reactors are continuing.

During two visits of the mobile X-ray unit here this year, a total of 3,436 persons were examined, of whom 27 were listed as possible tuberculosis victims.

A total of 369 persons admitted to Monroe County General Hospital were X-rayed.

Guest speaker will be David George Moyer, M.D., Associate Director Obstetric Clinic, Abington Memorial Hospital and Director of the Tumor Clinic, Jeanes Hospital.

Dr. Moyer was recently featured in the television documentary "MD-USA" which was shown on a national TV network.

Monroe Marines Start Drills At Camp Lejeune

Special To The Daily Record

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. — Monroe County Marines, serving with the Third Motor Transport Battalion, started a two week tour of duty with a "live fire" problem.

Members were given a lecture in the morning session and went to the field in the afternoon with the weapons.

Weapons fired were the 3.5 rocket launcher, 77mm recoilless rifle, 81 mm mortars, 30 caliber machine guns and flame throwers.

Pfc. Harvey F. Lyons, of Sny-desville, was assigned to the flame thrower. He said, "Why do they always pick on the smallest man for the heaviest piece of equipment?" He added, "I'm not griping because I have wanted to see one of these in action since I enlisted."

Headed west, through the dust of passing troops, was Cpl. Richard Roth and Pfc. Donald Price, both of Cresco, and Cpl. Arthur Booth, of Bushkill with their 75 mm recoilless rifle.

In Korea
As they walked away Cpl. Roth said, "The last time I saw one of these fired was in Korea. I know what they can do, now let's go out and blow some things right out of the ground."

Operating the machine guns, mortars and rocket launchers were Sgt. Richard Parton, Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg; AS/Sgt. Harold N. Jacobsen, S. Crystal St., East Stroudsburg; and AS/Sgt. Anthony J. Carotta, Mt. Pocono.

Due to the great danger in firing the weapons they were fired from a "fixed" position into the Atlantic Ocean.

All the men remarked, "that it was a long time since they were behind weapons like these and that they enjoyed the day's training."

"The Clutcher"
Jacobson, who is called "the clutcher" of the battalion, said he was going to spend one hour with his platoon going over wenching procedure so that his unit will be the "sharpest" in the battalion for tomorrow's training.

The training will be driving in rough terrain, sand, mud and water.

In conditions such as these the wench plays a vital role in getting through the designated area.

Seasonal Employment Dips Offset By Industry Gains

SEASONAL employment reductions in resort hotels and construction offset gains registered in manufacturing industries. Employment in 82 major firms in the area showed a net loss of 1,555 workers from September to November, 1959.

According to John P. Dougherty, manager of the local state employment service manufacturing industries showed a net gain of 108 in this period.

Area manufacturing employment is higher by 16 percent than in the comparable month of November, 1958, while total area employment is 14 percent higher than in 1958.

Top Moves

Chief gains in manufacturing industries were in fabricated metal products, apparel, and miscellaneous. In non-manufacturing, both service and construction industries registered sizeable gains.

The employment service noted that job prospects in manufacturing establishments after mid-January, 1960 appear good. Principal gains are expected in fabricated metals, apparel, and miscellaneous industries.

Construction employment is expected to be at the same record peak during 1960 as it was during 1959.

Placed 2418

Dougherty said that the Stroudsburg employment service placed 2418 persons in non-agricultural jobs during the first 11 months of 1959, while receiving 1937 new applications for work.

The office certified claims for Pennsylvania Unemployment Insurance totaling $850,836. During the same period in 1958 $1,010,000 in unemployment insurance were certified.

Background And Operation Of Stroud Mansion Told

CONSIDERABLE interest has been aroused recently concerning the background and operation of Stroud Mansion. With this in mind, Mrs. Clifford F. Heller, secretary - treasurer of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs, has prepared a brief history of the structure. Her account follows:

During the year 1795, Col. Jacob Stroud built the 12-room house at the northwest corner of Ninth and Main Sts. in Stroudsburg. This was to be a home for his son, John, who shortly afterward gave it to his brother, Daniel.

This building remained the property of some part of the Stroud family until 1893, and during that time the ancestors of many prominent local people lived in the old Stroud house.

In 1893, Timothy Everitt purchased the Stroud Mansion, built a wooden addition at the rear and made the house into a two-family dwelling. Because of his advanced age, he decided to sell the property in 1920.

Since the Civic Club (now the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs) the Red Cross and the DAR were looking for a permanent meeting place and the Historical Society a room to house its treasures and documents, a group of women from the Civic Club set out to raise the purchase price.

With the moving of the library, the Monroe County Historical Society took over the space vacated in Stroud Community House and now occupies the entire first floor and part of the basement of the old building.

Many groups have visited these rooms by appointment. The rooms are open to the public one day a week through several of the winter months.

CUB Pack 86 of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hold a picnic Tuesday night at 6 p.m. at the Stroudsburg Playground. A basket lunch will be featured. In the event of rain the picnic will be held in the church dining room.

Judge W. A. Erdman and W. B. Eilenberger decided to incorporate it as the Stroud Community House Corp. with five trustees from the Woman's Club, one from the Chamber of Commerce and one from the Monroe County Courts, this corporation to be non-profit and tax free.

The care and maintenance of the building are still supported by rents from various clubs and organizations using the rooms and from the rental of a third-floor apartment.

No money has been solicited from public funds or from the county commissioners.

The organizations renting the building at present are the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs, the Junior Women's Club, the Monroe County Historical Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Democratic Women's Club and the American Association of University Women.

The Monroe County Library rented parts of the building from 1921 to 1954, when a gift from Howard Keiper in memory of Mrs. Johanna Keiper made the first floor of the present location at 913 Main St. available. This provided the larger quarters needed by the library.

A Big Industry

It probably will come as a surprise even to most people in this vacationland area to hear that Pennsylvania's income from tourist travel now balances the combined total of three other important industries—anthracite and bituminous production and farm income.

Gov. David Lawrence made the disclosure last weekend at Wellsboro, where he spoke at a laurel festival.

Citing figures furnished by Harold Swenson, state director of vacation and travel development, the Governor said the tourist industry will create $1,300,000,000 in business for Pennsylvania this year.

By comparison, he fixed the value of the state's bituminous coal production at 356 million dollars, for anthracite production at 175 million dollars, and total cash farm income at 785 million dollars.

Gov. Lawrence spoke glowingly of a national advertising campaign in which the Commonwealth and the tourist industry are cooperating to tell people in other states about Pennsylvania's many attractions as a vacationland.

The campaign, he reported, is being reflected in the steadily increasing number of written inquiries from persons in other states. Those inquiries mean additional tourist business for the Pocono, where four-fifths of the state's resorts are located.

We are appreciative of the efforts being made in Harrisburg—at both the executive and legislative levels—to increase the tourist trade in the Pocono, and elsewhere.

A similar push behind the state's gigantic highway program would further enhance our opportunities for attracting more and more vacationers.

The Keystone Shortway, for example, is designed to cut through some of the most scenic areas of Pennsylvania. If it is rushed to completion, think of the many thousands of tourists who would prefer the Shortway route to others while traveling to and from the New York World's Fair in 1964-65. It's a point worth serious consideration in the planning of highway expenditures over the next few years.

The Pennsylvania Story

Thanks Stassen

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Curiously perhaps, many a top Pennsylvania Republican leader around Capitol Hill privately has expressed good thanks to one of the "wonder boys" Harold E. Stassen for his attempt to launch a campaign of support for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as a GOP presidential candidate.

When Mr. Stassen first made his bid to regain the public spotlight last week, virtually the entire GOP hierarchy bloc at the time strongly resented the move, feeling that it served no good purpose insofar as the much talked about party unity theme was concerned and which so far has shown an almost solid backing of the candidacy of Vice-President Richard Nixon.

Reason for this is not that the Nixon bloc in the Keystone State has weakened. Far from it, but it does present recognition of an irritating failure that up to this point at least has been hampered hard by opposing Democrats.

Donkey riders have been persistent in claiming that the upcoming GOP nominating convention in Chicago this August is a "closed affair" — that is, not an "open" convention such as their Los Angeles hoodoo next month with a healthy batch of candidates.

Actually, of course, the circumstance is one of the oddities of the times and one that definitely is not the making of leaders of either of the two major parties. The only difference lies in the fact that Democrats have been smarter in speedily and persistently capitalizing on the "one candidate" facet besetting Republicans.

"We're going to need a few fireworks, at least to counteract the spirited Democratic convention, and strangely perhaps, Mr. Statten's efforts may provide at least some zip," wryly commented one member of the GOP delegation brass.

For Philadelphia Stassen, who has been a consistent loser in recent years including the gubernatorial nomination and the Philadelphia mayorship, there appears to be little to be gained.

It isn't a question now of "bargaining" with him in the hopes of getting him to call off his move — rather it is a question of insuring that he keeps it up!

However in literally welcoming the "upstart" on the part of Mr. Stassen, GOP leaders in this state and elsewhere know full well the Stassen movement has as much chance as a cactus at the South Pole.

In the big Pennsylvania convention delegation alone, it is doubtful if there are more than one or two at the most who will waver from the Nixon bandwagon in the showdown vote — and Pennsylvania leaders are generally convinced this is the same attitude prevailing throughout most of the other states.

But — the Stassen "lone heart" bid does help remove the onus of an out-and-out "closed" convention, even though the move has virtually no chance of getting off the sawdust floor.

In effect it is a boon in disguise, is the way one top GOP leader explained it this week.

In fact, strange as it may seem, it is hoped Mr. Stassen will stage another of his ill-fated stop-Nixon drives at the convention—similar to the fiasco of the 1956 gathering when he attempted the same thing against Mr. Nixon as the then vice-presidential hopeful.

A movement such as this, argue members of the more liberal element, unquestionably would help stir public interest in what threatens to be an otherwise apathetic and lackluster convention.

"We're going to need a few fireworks, at least to counteract the spirited Democratic convention, and strangely perhaps, Mr. Statten's efforts may provide at least some zip," wryly commented one member of the GOP delegation brass.

For Philadelphia Stassen, who has been a consistent loser in recent years including the gubernatorial nomination and the Philadelphia mayorship, there appears to be little to be gained.

It isn't a question now of "bargaining" with him in the hopes of getting him to call off his move — rather it is a question of insuring that he keeps it up!

Anytime you meet Margaret Jones ask her how the dogs are doing.

Mrs. Jones, wife of wonderful Bill, kept Monroe County Hospital in stitches — not sutures — with her howl-wowing to keep a patient happy in her room.

The Allen-Scott Report

Red Leaders Jittery

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — Russia's top civilian and military leaders are still highly jittery over the U-2 spy plane incident.

Elaborate civil defense alerts and exercises are now being conducted on an average of once a week at the Soviet's main nuclear command post on the Volga River some 450 miles from Moscow.

Premier Khrushchev has participated in at least two of these drills.

This is the first time since the 1958 completion of this huge and extensively equipped underground installation that serious training activity has taken place there. In the past, that has been infrequent and largely perfunctory, with only minor officials on hand.

But now these command post exercises are very different.

Since the disclosure of the repeated and deep penetration into Russia of U-2 reconnaissance planes, the CPs are comprehensive and carefully organized and staged operations that are carried out with utmost earnestness by the high-placed civilian and military participants.

Basis of these training problems is assumed large-scale U. S. nuclear attacks. These theoretical strikes involve both bombers and intermediate and intercontinental ballistic missiles, directed at key Russian centers and other crippling targets.

While the Kremlin's great nuclear command post is super-secret, NATO authorities nevertheless know quite a bit about it.

This information includes photographs of both the CP and surrounding area.

The massive underground redoubt lies in the center of an elaborately camouflaged and heavily guarded 12-mile region. The installations are more than 120 feet underground, with working and living facilities for around 300 persons.

An Intelligence report describes the CP as a "robot city" and "Automation show-case" with the most modern communication equipment linking it not only with every part of Russia, but with the satellites and Red China as well. Started in 1954, the redoubt was completed in 1958, but new construction appears to be going on there more or less constantly.

Old Committee Story—Premier Fidel Castro is shortly due to get a bitter dose of what it means to do business with the Reds.

Russia is planning to dump a lot of its Cuban sugar on the world market.

Purpose of this undercover scheme is to smash world sugar prices.

That could seriously affect U.S. sugar growers.

A special State Department report warns of this ominous possibility. The information is based on authoritative sources on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Counter measure under study includes raising the issue of Soviet dumping in the United Nations. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge favors going further and including the whole question of Russian infiltration in Cuba.

Meanwhile Castro, in one of his hours-long radio-TV harangues, proudly announced that Russia will publish a "collection of my addresses and other statements."

And Castro's puppet President DORTICOS, since returning from Mexico, is claiming that President Adolfo Lopez Mateos "solemnly promised me he will officially visit Cuba in the near future." DORTICOS is giving no indication how near that future is.

Foreign Flashes — Argentine's UN Ambassador Mario Amadeo, who is pressing the complaint there against Israel in the Adolf Eichmann case, was once connected by the U.S. with Nazis in Argentina in the State Department's historic "Blue Book" . . . Swiss Ambassador de Torrente is returning home to retire after 40 years of diplomatic service. During his three years in Washington, Ambassador de Torrente constructed a modern chancery and established himself as one of the most popular diplomats in the capital.

Communist ring around half of Europe. Moreover, not many Americans are aware of the fact that Africa is a vital source of strategic materials. The United States draws upon African sources for 28 strategic raw materials. Without them our military forces would be seriously impaired.

Coming closer to home, there's this excerpt from a Congressional report on "Subversive Influence in the Educational Process." To wit: "Professor Morrison acknowledged that he had been a member of the Young Communist League and the Communist Party in California in about 1939 prior to becoming associated with the atomic bomb project. In fact he was such a trained Communist that he delivered for his Communist unit a series of lectures on Leninism . . .

One Good Lesson

For the second time in less than seven weeks President Eisenhower has suffered an embarrassing tactical failure in the execution of this country's foreign policy. Necessity to cancel the Japanese state visit and the breakup of the Summit Conference represent serious advance miscalculations of forces which were already at work militating against the success of the two affairs.

It seems almost incredible that the State Department's officials in Japan should have been unable to calculate the potential strength of the Tokyo left wing mobs long in advance of the President's commitment to the visit. Yet this is the same State Department which found itself "totally surprised" by the recent fall of the Menderes regime in Turkey.

As to the Khrushchev-Paris affair: it has long been apparent that so-called Stalinist elements in Moscow and Peking have opposed Mr. Khrushchev's flirtations with Western leaders, including President Eisenhower at Camp David. Mr. K. has advertised himself to his opponents as the man who could "handle" Eisenhower.

He even had built up Mr. Eisenhower as a man "with a will for peace." But when the President personally acknowledged responsibility for the U-2 espionage flights over Russia, this was proof to the forces-in-opposition in the East that Mr. K.'s boast was empty. Mr. K. had to back track.

It was the Administration's failure to recognize the sensitivity of the Russian leader's domestic position which led to the Paris debacle. Mr. K. is no saint. But who is his alternative? The Summit might have produced few constructive results. But it is one channel of negotiation worth keeping open in view of the alternative horror which overhangs us all.

It should be emphasized that the two recent setbacks of the President are not necessarily setbacks for U.S. foreign policy on which both Democratic and Republican parties have shown fundamental accord throughout the post-war period.

Rather they represent failures in the execution of that policy. For the future, it can only be hoped that the lesson of the need for intelligence, competence and experience at the highest level in the execution of U.S. policy will not be lost on the electors in November.

U. S. Religious Bodies Going Into Magazine Field

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

AMERICAN religious bodies are going into the magazine field in a big and crafty manner.

One after another, they've developed handsome, nationally circulated periodicals, aimed both at reinforcing the faith and capturing mass audiences.

"We're competing for people's time and attention right along with radio, television and popular magazines," said Henry McCorkle, editor of the most recently launched church monthly, the Episcopalian.

"We can't do it with self-glorifying house organs."

Started in New York this spring on authorization of the last Episcopal General Assembly, the new publication and various other church magazines of recent origin have the looks and ingenuity of top commercial "slicks."

Keystonians In Congress At A Loss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvanians in Washington were at a loss this week to find a motive for the suicide of their colleague, Rep. Douglas H. Elliott (R-Pa.) last Sunday.

They were unanimous in predicting that the handsome 39-year-old Chambersburg, Pa., congressman would have had a brilliant career.

This opinion was voiced by many in speeches in the house floor and by others in conversations outside the House chamber.

Just the day before his death Elliott spent some time with a political aide at home in Chambersburg discussing what position he should take on legislation pending before the House this week.

It was not considered unusual for him to go to his summer cottage, where his body was found, in the early morning ahead of his wife and three children.

Miss Helen Simpson, his secretary here, said on such occasions he would go to church and then be joined by his family later. The cottage was about 15 miles from his Chambersburg home.

Elliott had accepted an invitation to a dinner party at Miss Simpson's home in Washington on Monday night of this week.

The only report that Elliott might have been upset about some thing came from Rep. Michael J. Kirwan (D-Ohio).

Kirwan said that on Tuesday of last week, Elliott, carrying two large suitcases, rushed into a House office building elevator on which Kirwan was a passenger. The Ohioan said Elliott appeared preoccupied and spoke to no one.

The death of John J. Kelly of Philadelphia also was mourned by Pennsylvanians this week.

In his youth, Kelly, long prominent in city, state and national Democratic circles, was the world's premier single sculls oarsman.

A successful businessman, Kelly as Democratic candidate for mayor of Philadelphia in the mid-1930s, breathed new life into the party at that time. He lost the race but Joseph S. Clark and Richardson Dilworth later became, in that order, the first Democratic mayors of Philadelphia in 68 years.

Jews Assemble In Synagogue

AMSTERDAM, (AP)—A thousand Jews assembled in the 300-year-old Portuguese-Jewish synagogue Thursday to greet visiting Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel. Included among the thousand were some of the 700 surviving members of the Portuguese-Jewish community here. Before the days of the Nazis it numbered 5,000.

catching, the writing brisk and pungent, the contents highly varied, sprinkled with big-name writers. There's a religious focus, but a wide range of subject matter.

The trend has sent combined church magazine circulation soaring to many millions.

The bright and stylish new Methodist monthly, "Together," started in 1956, already has passed the million mark, and is aiming for two million by the end of its second four years.

Editor Leland D. Case, of Chicago, said it's necessary to attract the multitudes in readership—if the church is to be best served. The objective, he said, is to be both "instructive and entertaining."

The broad appeal contrasts notably with the restricted fare of many church magazines in the past.

Concerned
"We're concerned with all aspects of life and the whole scope of Christianity," said McCorkle. "We've got to take the blinders off, and listen to what others are saying that has meaning for us."

A major task also, he said, is for a church magazine to provide denominational cohesion, linking local, regional and national levels.

Roman Catholic publications, including 130 newspapers and 451 magazines in this country, now have a total circulation of 25 million, double that of 30 years ago.

Biggest of them is the million-circulation "Catholic Digest," a pocket-sized monthly packed with a lively variety in content, and put out in St. Paul, Minn., by Father Paul Bussard, publisher, and Father Kenneth Ryan, editor.

Also in the million-circulation class is the enterprising "Presbyterian Life," official biweekly of the United Presbyterian Church, edited by Robert J. Cadigan in Philadelphia.

Orders $25 Per Day Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House committee in charge of expense accounts Thursday ordered a $25-a-day ceiling on the amount House members may claim for living expenses while on congressional trips.

New regulations on expense accounts were adopted by the House Administration Committee, which intends to put them in effect July 1.

The committee also decided that members must obtain approval in advance of a trip to seek any more than $12 a day allowance for such expenses as hotel rooms, meals, laundry and tips.

Employees of the executive branch of the government are limited to a $12 per diem allowance.

Soviet To Send Delegation

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union is sending delegations to three African independence celebrations next week: Leopoldville festivities saluting the Congo's severance from Belgium; Republic Day in Ghana, at Accra; and the birth of Somalia as a nation, at Mogadishio, after years under Italian colonial and U.N. trust rule.

Mexico Has Hottest Spring

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico has had its hottest spring in recent years—temperatures up to 110—and an unusual wave of sickness among children that led to uncounted fatalities. As summer began, Children's Hospital here had about 200 suffering from respiratory ailments, dehydration and kindred ills.

With Eye To Old Folks House Passes Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—With an eye to the old folks' vote, the House Thursday passed 380-23 a bill that would create a limited federal-state program of health-hospital care for elderly persons unable to pay heavy medical bills.

The lopsided vote—244 Democrats and 136 Republicans—was for the bill, 16 Democrats and 7 Republicans against—was not considered an accurate reflection of sentiment for the skeleton program itself.

Rather, it indicated widespread belief that this bill could become the framework on which the Senate might build provisions of either of two much broader and rival plans—one backed by the Eisenhower administration, the other by many Democrats and organized labor.

Only One
The bill passed by the House was the only one on which the House Ways and Means Committee could agree after eight weeks. It came to the House on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

The House took it, for to have done otherwise would have killed chances for any health care legislation this election year — and heavy mail reported by congressional offices earlier this session was taken to mean there was widespread voter concern.

As it is, the session is fast drawing to a close and there is some question whether enough time remains to shape a final bill that can clear Congress.

The health care plan forms only part of a package bill making changes in various Social Security programs.

As sent to the Senate, the proposal might benefit an estimated 500,000 to a million persons a year. The nation's over-65 population is believed to number about 16 million.

Under the bill's terms, each state could extend its public welfare program to cover a new classification—persons 65 or older who can meet their everyday expenses but are unable to handle heavy medical costs.

Set Own Rules

Each state would set its own rules for eligibility within over-all federal standards.

It would be up to the states to decide how much each would provide in annual benefits. The maximum would be 120 days of hospitalization, unlimited doctor services, $300 worth of drugs, and $300 in laboratory fees.

The federal government would ante up 50 to 65 per cent of the cost, depending on a state's financial resources.

Annual cost of this limited program was calculated at about 342 million dollars a year, with the government's share about 195 million.

Investment Firms' Critics Often Accuse Mutual Funds

By William A. Doyle

CRITICS of investment companies often accuse both the closed-end companies and the open-end mutual funds of "following the crowd" by investing in only the most popular stocks. They back up this accusation by pointing to the various tabulations of the investment holdings of investment companies.

Very often, there will be remarkable similarities in investment. The stock of a certain company is often held by a fairly large number of investment companies. These similarities stick out like sore thumbs.

Does this mean that the people who run investment companies are not doing a professional job of managing shareholders' money?

In some cases, it might be true. But, for most investment companies, the answer is a resounding "No."

It takes more than an annual, semi-annual or quarterly survey of investment company "favorites" to get an idea how the professional managements operate. When you go through the list of holdings of individual investment companies, you soon find out that each company usually tries to seek out and buy securities best suited for its individual aims—not on the basis of "what everybody else is buying."

John M. Templeton, president of Nucleonics Chemistry & Electronics Shares, has some pretty strong thoughts on whether or not it pays to follow the crowd in investing.

Tells Flatly
He will tell you flatly that

"bandwagon investing doesn't pay off." And he has facts and figures to prove it.

His research staff recently computed the results of investing $10,000 in each of the 10 most actively traded issues on the New York Stock Exchange 40 years ago.

"Bandwagon investors" who followed that technique would have had "tremendously varied fortunes," Templeton notes. Among the 10 stocks most popular 40 years ago, the value of International Merchant Marine shrank from $10,000 to $2,700; Baldwin Locomotive from $10,000 to $700; the old Studebaker became worthless.

In fact, he suggests that it may even make more sense to buy hundreds of stocks than to follow the crowd into a few popular issues.

Starting 40 years ago, an investment of $100,000 in the 425 industrial stocks used in Standard & Poor's broad index would have grown to $900,000. The same investment spread among the 10 most popular stocks would have grown to $295,000.

From all this Templeton concludes that it is best to avoid stocks which everyone wants and recommends. "It is better to search for the best managed companies with maximum growth potential or brainy bargains among unpopular or neglected stocks."

That, of course, is the test of good investment company management. If it can pick good investments, it will do the job for its shareholders.

Industrials On Upswing To Lead Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy industrials continued to provide leadership Thursday as the stock market extended its rally through the second session. Trading was active.

The advance was irregular and featured by some sharp profit taking in recent favorites as well as wide gains by specially situated issues.

An estimated $1,400,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the Associated Press average.

The market was raggedly higher in the morning then mounted a more solid advance in the afternoon as steels, motors, oils, non-ferrous metals and a number of leading rails advanced.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.05 to 647.41.

The AP 60-stock average rose 1.00 to 223.70 with the industrials up 2.00, the rails off 10 and the utilities up 30 to another new high for the year.

Of 1,200 issues traded, 565 advanced and 404 declined. New highs for the year totaled 60 and new lows 25.

Volume was 3,620,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 3,600,000.

American Stock Exchange prices moved generally higher on volume of 1,510,000 shares compared with 1,420,000 Wednesday.

Corporate bonds rose on slightly larger volume. U. S. government bonds were mostly lower. Bond trading increased to $6,070,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $5,050,000 Wednesday.

Claims 'K' Is Not Undermined

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Nikita Khrushchev, challenging both Lenin and the Chinese Communists over the possibilities of coexistence, doesn't sound much like an undermined man.

The ideological split in international communism which came to a head this week has a direct bearing on current attempts in Washington to assess the world situation since the summit blowup.

There is a widespread belief at top levels in Washington and elsewhere in the Western world that Khrushchev's extreme toughness at Paris was due at least in part to increased opposition in Moscow and Peiping to his "peaceful coexistence" line and his subordination of the world revolution to Soviet economic development.

Less vocal lower levels, especially in the Pentagon, have been warning that Khrushchev must not be underestimated and that no reliance can be placed on any possible Soviet weakening because of differences in the Kremlin.

Khrushchev now says that Lenin's theory of the inevitability of war as a part of the Communist revolution may have been all right for Lenin's time, but that all such things must be read in the light of changes in the "tens of years" since. The ends of communism may now be obtained by other means during a period of coexistence, he insists.

The Chinese Communists, at the same time, have gone back to the original Lenin stand, which they soft-pedaled only for a brief time in order to give lip service to Khrushchev before the summit.

On this point their representative to the Rumanian Communist party meeting, speaking ahead of Khrushchev and directing his remarks against the United States, was very clear.

No Hesitancy
But Khrushchev displayed no hesitancy and a renewed decisiveness in his reiteration of policy. He as much as said that he did not have to kowtow to differences of opinion either in Moscow or Peiping.

After he spoke—at a session from which Western newsmen were barred—there was evidence of extraordinarily careful handling of the speech for publication, stamping it as a major effort.

Khrushchev was telling the world that he intended to fight out the battle on his line regardless of how long it takes or how much opposition he encounters.

Whether he means it, or whether he is only trying to lull the rest of the world into an entrapping sense of false security against war, is a question that only events can answer.

Civic Leaders Join Lawrence
CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Scores of Washington County officials and civic leaders joined Gov. David L. Lawrence yesterday for a groundbreaking ceremony for a new Radio Corporation of America plant at Arden Downs near this Washington County community.

The governor broke ground for the two-building, $3,480,000 plant by setting off a dynamite blast.

The plant will be located on the Canonsburg-Washington road. It will be the principal design and production center for RCA communications equipment. Scheduled to open next spring, the plant will employ several hundred persons.

A loan of $1,044,000 from the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to the Greater Canonsburg Industrial Development Corp. will be used to help finance the construction.

State Urged To Provide Mine Aids
HARRISBURG (AP)—The 1961 Legislature will be asked to provide stiffer requirements for reforesting land which has been scarred by strip mining, State Mine Secretary Lewis Evans said Thursday.

Evans said he wants a new law which would require the operators to slope the edges of the strip mines to a 45-degree angle after mining operations are completed. He said the department has tried twice previously to get the Legislature to approve the provision and set higher bonds.

The new provision would create a need for an increase in the bond, Evans said, because it would require more backfilling.

Present law requires bituminous strip mine operators to backfill to a level three feet above the coal seam. For anthracite the backfill level is five feet.

Thus Evans explained, if the coal seam was 80 feet below the surface, a bituminous strip mine could leave a sheer drop-off of 77 feet and still comply with the present restoration laws.

The bituminous operators now just pay a $100 registration fee and post bond of $300 for each acre affected by their operations. The minimum bond is $3,000.

Keeping Current
Evans said the present bond is adequate for the present backfilling and planting requirements.

"The industry is keeping current now," he said. "As much average is being restored as is being disturbed."

Evans reported that operators have restored 48,226 acres during the past five years. He said this compares with 24,313 acres restored by the operators during the first 10 years of the law.

The department's big problem is trying to restore the numerous gouges left by mining operators before the commonwealth had restoration requirements.

It would cost several billion dollars to eradicate all the scars caused by strip mining prior to the (restoration) law," Evans declared.

Defense, Prosecution Probe Prospective Jurors

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Defense and prosecution, aided by the judge, probed prospective jurors with questions Thursday to try to eliminate all elements of prejudice at the trial of five men accused of involuntary manslaughter in the 1959 deaths of 12 anthracite miners.

At the end of the second day 10 jurors—seven women and three men—were seated in the jury box. Five women and two men were chosen Thursday.

The case in the Northampton County courtroom of Judge Carleton Woodring stems from the Jan. 22, 1959 disaster in the Port Griffith workings of the Knox Coal Co. of Exeter. The Susquehanna River gouged a hole in the thin roof covering of the mine that was dug under the water, drowning 12 miners.

Most of the mines in the coal-rich Wyoming Valley in northeastern Pennsylvania were flooded, throwing some 3,000 men out of work.

Accused
Accused of involuntary manslaughter are Louis Fabrizio, Yatesville; Robert L. Dougherty, Wyoming; and August J. Lippi, Exeter—all described as owners of Knox—and Ralph Fries, Moscow, and Fritz Renner, Clarks Summit, both engineers of Pennsylvania Coal Co. which had leased the Port Griffith mine to Knox.

The jury of 12, plus two alternates, is expected to be completed Friday. Then, barring any unexpected developments, court will be recessed until Monday when the prosecution will open its case.

It is not expected that counsel for the five defendants will have any opening statements, deferring comment until completion of the Commonwealth testimony.

According to the legal ground rules drawn up before selection of a jury began, each side can challenge the seating of 100 men and women as jurors. So far the prosecution has exercised 17 of its challenges, the defense 12.

Key Questions
These were the key questions: Are you a member of a labor union? . . . And, if so, are you an officer? Would you be prejudiced against any or all of the defendants if one or all failed to testify in his own defense?

The union membership question apparently is of chief concern to Lippi, who is president of District 1 of the United Mine Workers.

Besides the manslaughter charges, Lippi, Fabrizio and Dougherty have been indicted for conspiracy. Lippi, specifically, is accused of hiding his ownership of Knox—a charge he has consistently denied—and the other with aiding and abetting him in so hiding.

The trial originally was scheduled for Wilkes-Barre, but the State Supreme Court granted a change of venue to Easton on grounds the defendants couldn't receive a fair and impartial hearing because the Knox disaster injured anywhere in the anthracite region caused serious economic losses.

Found Guilty Of Tax Evasion
PITTSBURGH (AP)—A 35-year-old Indiana (Pa) man found guilty of income tax evasion was sentenced to jail yesterday for a one-day term.

U. S. District Court Judge Rabe F. Marsh said he was "extremely lenient" with Karl K. Hetager, suspending the original sentence of nine months to one day. He fined Hetager $2,500. The jury recommended leniency.

In April, a jury found Hetager guilty of failing to file an income tax return in 1956. He was found innocent of not filing returns in 1954 and 1955. The government claimed he earned $79,903 in 1956. Hetager was placed under three years' probation and ordered to pay $500 of the $2,500 fine immediately.

Art Classes For Youths Set To Start

REGISTRATION for summer classes for children will take place next week at the Pocono Art Center. For children who want to work with clay, Marcia De Rocco will start a class; those interested should sign up on Tuesday, June 28, for regular classes on Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 3:30.

Children who want to draw and paint can register with Helen Kollmeyer for regular classes to meet on Wednesdays, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Baron Reinhardt, the puppeteer, will lead a group of children in puppet making and performing on Thursday afternoons, from 2 to 3:30, and registration takes place at the Center this Thursday, June 30.

Ballet
Ballet classes, which have been meeting with Carol Cartwright, will continue; however, the time is changed from Friday afternoons to Friday mornings from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., starting July 1.

All taking part must be members of the Pocono Art Center, which is located above the Penny Store in Stroudsburg.

Dear Abby

Pitch Them A Few

Dear Abby: I am an intelligent, attractive, well-dressed girl of 20. Everyone says I have loads of personality. I am a huge success with every one—except the opposite sex. Some girl friends have told me I'd be more popular with men if I bought myself a few "curves". (I am 29-25-33, am 5 ft. 5 and weigh 125.) I don't see where this kind of cheating would do me any good. If a man got interested in me for my "figure", I'd have to tell him before we were married that it was artificial. What should I do? Does that kind of dishonesty pay?

"STRAIGHT UP AND DOWN"

Dear "Straight": Many of your "straight up and down sisters" buy "curves" because they want to look better in their clothes—and it is not a matter of halting their hooks with sponge rubber. It's no more "dishonest" than using artificial color on your cheeks and lips or putting an artificial curl in your hair. All's fair in love and war, and the war is on!

Dear Abby: I know a lady motorman who has so much electricity in her hair when she takes her clothes off the sparks start to fly all over. I would like to know if there is any danger of her catching fire.

CLOSE FRIEND

Dear Friend: No danger—unless she has a conductor.

Dear Abby: Don't adults with young children answer the telephone themselves any more? I am in business and use the telephone a great deal. And I am sick and tired of talking "baby talk" with some three-year-old who has answered the phone for "Mummy" and wants to play guessing games with me.

This morning I asked a child whose mother was down in the basement washing to please call her mother to the phone. Apparently the child was deterred on the way and forgot all about it. I waited on the line fully 15 minutes, then hung up. I couldn't call back because her receiver was off the hook half the day. I think children are cute—but not on the telephone.

DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: I agree with you. And in this connection, now that we can dial long distance directly, many children have accidentally made some very costly long-distance calls while playing with telephones. I recommend toy telephones for children.

Dear Abby: You can tell 24-year-old "Miss L." that the 52-year-old "bachelor" she is running around with has a wife and children. Furthermore, there will be no divorce in this family. My husband's name belongs to my children and me. "Miss L." can expect nothing but ultimate disgrace and possibly a child without a name. His name goes with this family—and so does his income.

"A's WIFE"

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby's best-selling book, "Dear Teen-Ager", is on sale at all bookstores.

The Daily Investor

Gamble Or Investment

By William A. Doyle
Q. Am I right or wrong in advising my friend against entering the stock market game? She is 55, has a job, $2,000 in a savings account of $400 in Series E, U.S. savings bonds. My feeling is that she should buy only E bonds.

However, if she insists on gambling in the stock market, I suggest that she keep at least $1,500 in her savings account and take a chance on either five shares of American Telephone & Telegraph or 10 shares of McDonnell Aircraft and 10 shares of United Merchants and Manufacturers.

Your opinion would be greatly appreciated.

A. It could be that these tired old eyes have misjudged the tone of your letter. But I get the impression that other people's opinions don't mean much to you. You seem to be ready to offer your personal solution to everybody's problems.

Is it you or your friend who thinks that the stock market is a "game" and that buying high-quality stocks such as

AT&T is an absolute "gamble"? The purchase of stock is a very serious move for anyone. Millions of people own stocks as investments — not as gambles.

If your friend is thinking about gambling, you are undoubtedly doing her a favor. If she is considering a long-term investment, you may be doing her a disservice by talking about "games" and "gambles".

You are right in advising her to keep a cushion of cash and E bonds. No one should invest in stocks without having a reserve for safety. If she understands this, a small investment in AT&T seems reasonable for her.

Q. My husband and I have been buying Series E, U.S. savings bonds through payroll deductions since 1942. We would like to exchange these for Series H bonds, because Series H bonds pay interest every six months. Can we do this without having to pay Federal income tax on the interest that has built up on the E bonds?

A. Yes, the U.S. Treasury Department has arrangements for exactly that kind of an exchange.

If you redeem (cash in) your E bonds, you are supposed to report as taxable income, the interest that has accumulated on those bonds. The accumulated interest is supposed to be reported on your income-tax return for the year in which you redeemed the E bonds.

But if you exchange E bonds for H bonds, you do not have to pay taxes on the accumulated interest on the E bonds. When and if you redeem the H bonds, you are supposed to report the accumulated interest on the E bonds you owned before you made the exchange.

What this amounts to is a method to delay your income-tax liability. This can be very helpful, especially for people who prefer the semi-annual interest check H bonds provide. The interest on H bonds, of course, is taxable as you receive it.

If you do exchange E bonds for H bonds, be sure you explain at your bank or wherever you have it done that you want to make an exchange.

A number of letters have come in from people who wanted to do this. But some dumb clerk redeemed the E bonds and sold them H bonds.

As a result there was no exchange. And the people were stuck with tax liabilities.

Nike-Zeus Firing Fails
WASHINGTON (AP)—An anti-missile firing of a Nike-Zeus missile from a newly designed underground launching site failed yesterday when the rocket blew up in its hole.
There were no injuries to the launching crew in the test at the White Sands, N.M., missile range, the Army said.
A spokesman said the failure apparently was not due to the booster rocket, which was like those used successfully in previous tests from other types of launchers, but was caused by a condition created in a single cell in which the missile was ignited.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen Peet

Double Ring Ceremony Scene Of South Sterling Wedding On Saturday

South Sterling — A double-ring ceremony at two o'clock on June 18 at the Hollisterville Bible Protestant Church, Hollisterville, united in marriage Miss JoAnn Rose, daughter of Leland S. Rose, Greentown, and Herbert Allen Peet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Peet, South Sterling.

Rev. William G. Schmidt, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony before the altar which was decorated with white carnations, pompons and gladioli.

Mrs. Miriam Cron Jones was soloist, singing "Because" and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace featuring a boat-shaped neckline and long sleeves. Buttons trimmed the bodice and the sleeves. Her bouquet was of white pompons with an orchid in the center.

Mrs. Roberta Hollister, Lake Ariel, was matron of honor. Her gown was of yellow with brief sleeves. She wore a white hat and carried yellow carnations and white pompons with pink ribbons.

'Fashions A La Carte' Sponsored By Hadassah

"Fashions A La Carte" were served last night at Tamiment-in-the-Poconos, to a crowd of approximately 600 attending the annual fashion show held under the auspices of the Stroudsburg Chapter of Hadassah, the woman's Zionist organization of America.

The fashions shown came from A. B. Wyckoff, Stroudsburg, Soleda Furs, New York, and the Allice L. Seligberg Vocational High School of Girls in Jerusalem.

The Wyckoff fashions featured casuals and separates for Summer and Fall. The featured makes were Jantzen and Pett. Miss Jantzen, Maribel Maschall of Media represented her company by modeling two stunning one piece suits and then caused a delighted stir in the audience when she entered wearing a bikini.

The Pett Fall separates were tobacco colored match-mates. For the coming season, Pett is featuring shades of brown called tobacco and camel which are coordinated with clay and grey.

Israeli Fashions
The Israeli fashions do not combine clay and grey but combine talent, originality and amazing design.

The very bulky coats featured massive, cape like collars and deep pockets.

Many of the dresses and some of the coats, designed for Fall were actually very full but in

Young People Of Hamilton Parish Confirmed

Nine young people of the Hamilton Lutheran parish were confirmed and received their first communion at Christ Church, Hamilton Square, on the Festival of Pentecost.

They were: Brenda Harleman, Doris Frable and Joan Dorschimer, of Zion Church, Brodheadsville; Sandra Fetherman, of St. John's Church, Bartonsville; Dvonne Ace, Kathleen Hunt, Lenore Hoffman, Frank Kemmerer and Wayne Kemmerer, of Christ Church, Hamilton Square.

Altar Guild Entertains At Family Supper

The Altar Guild of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, held a covered dish supper in the church school rooms. Families of the members were guests at the supper and at the white elephant sale which followed.

Mrs. Robert Long was in charge of the affair. The following hostesses assisted her: Mrs. Helen Glennon, Mrs. Walter Heckman, Mrs. Arthur Hoffman, Mrs. Donald Kanouse, Mrs. Mabel Sheeley.

Vernon Ellenberger, master of ceremonies during the sale, was assisted by the Guild president, Mrs. Paul Ackerman, and the vice president, Mrs. Robert Long.

The Guild will not meet during July and August but will resume meetings in September.

The following were present: Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Ruloff, Mrs. Maude Cole, Mrs. Helen Glennon, Mrs. Robert Keller, Nancy Cramer, Mrs. Donald Cramer, Robert Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Heckman, Dr. and Mrs. P. N. Wohlson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Andress, Alice Ann Andress, Billy Andress, Kathy Sue Andress, William Andress.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ellenberger, Mrs. James Hantjia, Billy Hantjia, Tommy Hantjia, Mrs. Calvin Butts, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Kanouse, Stephen Kanouse, LouAnn Kanouse, Kevin Kanouse, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Miller Jr., Gregory Alan Miller, Mrs. Mary Blair, Mrs. Stella Mervine, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buck, Suzanne Buck, David Buck.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Buck, Todd Matthew Rauchenberger, Amy Lynn Rauchenberger, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Rauchenberger, Mary Lou Hardenstine, Gerry Ann Hardenstine, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hardenstine, Mr. and Mrs. John Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ackerman, Sharon Lyn Kitchen, Mrs. Mabel Sheeley.

Miss Deborah Ann Peet, of Stroudsburg, was flower girl, and Darrell Hollister, Lake Ariel, was ringbearer.

Richard R. Peet, Stroudsburg, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Carl and Adrian Rose, Greentown.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Peet chose a pink dress with which she wore white accessories.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the Newfoundland fire hall following the ceremony. White carnations, pompons and gladioli were used as decorations at the hall.

Both the bride and bridegroom are 1960 graduates of Southern Wayne Joint School.

Mrs. Peet is employed at a private home at Skytop. Peet, who is a member of the National Guard, is self-employed as a stonemason and carpenter.

The couple is at home at Sunrise Cottage, South Sterling.

Miss Joyce Wiest

Joyce Wiest Awarded Degree

Joyce Wiest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiest of East Stroudsburg, was graduated on June 13 from the King's College, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., with an Associate in Arts degree.

While attending college, she was active in Pi Lambda Sigma, pre-nursing, and was cheerleading captain. She also served as class secretary, student council representative and as a member of the Women's Dormitory Council.

Miss Wiest, who was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School, will continue her training in September at Columbia Presbyterian Medical School of Physicians and Surgeons, New York.

The detailed sequined and embroidered work was beyond words. One dress made of lace was completely re-embroidered with black sequins and silk chenille flowers. Clusters of crystals and gold beads added more sparkle. The dress featured a scalloped border and back-dipping hemline.

Fashions And Furs
This brief description of feature details does not tell the complete fashion picture of the Israeli Fashions but then words are inadequate to do so.

Along with the Israeli Fashions were shown the latest in furs from the Soleda Salons of New York. Two of the more unusual styles shown were the orchid pastel full length chesterfield coat, double breasted with full pockets and a slit in back and the reversible blanket stole. The latter looks just like a regular mink stole but when reversed it is predominately wool with mink trim. The wool in the stole is the same material as the skirt so that there is a well coordinated outfit.

Commentary for the a la Carte fashions was handled by Madelyn Maloney of Stroudsburg. The Hadassah showed their appreciation to Mrs. Maloney by having a brick of the new hospital Kirt Hadassah which will be dedicated August 3, placed in her honor.

Models for the show in addition to Miss Jantzen were Mrs. Ralph Brunori, Mrs. Richard Gaunt, Susan Heitler, Mrs. Charles Levergood, Mrs. George Litts, Mary Ann Manley, Mrs. Jack Mullins, Judy Papson, Mrs. Howard Popkin, Mrs. William Powlett, Mrs. Alden Rauchenberger, Mrs. Robert Shaw, Mrs. William Walters, Mrs. Fred Waring and serving as escorts for the furs shown were Ralph Brunori and John Wilhoite.

Newfoundland Sale
Newfoundland — A bake sale will be held on the bank lawn Saturday morning beginning at 10 by the Greentown-Newfoundland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship. Proceeds of the sale will be added to the treasury of the youth unit, which last year went to the MYFund, a Moravian missionary, CARE, and Chilean relief.

Betty JoAnn Weidman Becomes Bride Of Chester A. Garis Jr.

Miss Betty JoAnn Weidman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Weidman, Wind Gap RD 1, became the bride of Chester A. Garis Jr., I. C. 3 (S. S.), United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Garis Sr., Bangor RD 3, on Saturday at 2 p.m.

The wedding took place in Trinity United Church of Christ, Stone Church, with Rev. Richard J. Keen officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of hand clipped chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline. The ruffled bouffant skirt ended in a flounced chapel train. A fingertip silk illusion veil fell from a miniature aurora borealis crystal. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, orchids and dracena leaves.

Sandra Weidman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of orchid nylon sheer over taffeta with a matching headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white basket of white orchid carnations.

Bonnie Garis, sister of the bridegroom and Ann Ross, Johnsonville Road, North Bangor, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses and carried flowers identical to the maid of honor.

Lori Etta Weidman, sister of the bride was flower girl. She wore a dress of lace and orchid nylon sheer over taffeta. Her matching headpiece was trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white basket of white orchid pompons.

Ronald Garis, RD 3, Bangor, brother of the bridegroom was best man. Paul E. Labar RD 3, Bangor and Ted Koopman, Stroudsburg were ushers.

The organist was Mrs. Dorothy Garis, aunt of the bridegroom and the soloist was Miss Beverly Miller.

A reception followed the wedding in the church social room.

The bride was graduated from Pen Argyl Area Joint High School and is now employed in South Bangor by the Heyers Products Inc. Co.

The bridegroom was graduated from Bangor High School and is now attending Nuclear Power School in New London, Conn.

After a wedding trip they will reside with the bride's parents.

Del. Water Gap WSCS Has Last Meeting Of Year

Del. Water Gap — Mrs. Nelson Lightner entertained the Methodist WSCS at the final meeting of the season at her home Tuesday night.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Rapp, Mrs. George Hay, Mrs. George Brockman, Mrs. Layton Osborne, Mrs. Willard Jennings, the president, Mrs. Robert Richards, Mrs. Willard Kitchen, and Mrs. Stella Ridgway who has been suffering from a broken collar bone.

Mrs. Richards had charge of the devotional service. At the business session a report was received of the successful penny supper for which Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Lightner were co-chairmen. Mrs. George Brockman accepted chairmanship of a bakeless bake sale to be held in the near future.

Mrs. Kitchen and Mrs. Lightner were named to plant flowers in the urns in front of the Methodist Church. The same two ladies were also appointed to go to Portland to assist in any preparations for the reception to the new pastor, Rev. Raymond Poortra, which is to be held jointly by the two congregations at Portland on a date to be announced. Mrs. Kitchen turned in more money from the sale of kitchen knives.

Mrs. Lightner served refreshments. There will not be another meeting until September.

Sand Hill WSCS To Back Social

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Sand Hill Methodist Church, Bushkill, on route 209, will sponsor a strawberry and homemade ice cream social on Saturday beginning at 5:30 p.m.

There will be potato salad, macaroni salad, baked ham, hot dogs and barbecues.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Dodgers Meet Yankees Monday

THE WORLD CHAMPION Los Angeles Dodgers return to New York Monday for the first time since moving west three seasons ago, to face the Yankees in a night game.

The game is a benefit affair, with the Yankees' share going to its Sandlot Baseball Fund. The Dodgers' end of the gate also will go to charity.

Last year the Yankees flew to the coast to meet the transplanted Bums in the first game of this home and home series and helped attract a record crowd of 83,103.

Larry Sherry, the hero of last year's World Series, will receive the Babe Ruth Award as the outstanding player in the fall classic in pre-game ceremonies.

Home Run Contest Features Mantle, Howard

A home run contest, featuring Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle, Frank Howard, Gil Hodges and Duke Snider, will also precede the game.

A charter in the National Babe Ruth League, has been granted the Pocono Mountains League.

Four teams, Pocono Lake, Barrett, Paradise and Tannersville make up the league, headed by president John Ruehlman, of Henryville.

The Barrett Lions sponsor the Barrett team, Paradise Community Center sponsors the Paradise club, while donations provided the funds for the Tannersville and Pocono Lake teams.

John Shanley and Chris and Brian Marek are the only area boys attending the Pocono Mountain Basketball Camp at Shawnee, which runs through Saturday.

The instructors at the camp include Fred Schaus, West Virginia University coach; Guy Rodgers of the Philadelphia Warriors; Jack Mulvaney, Providence and Harry Litwak, Temple.

Bill Foster, who was recently appointed basketball coach at Bloomsburg State College, directs the camp, along with Litwak.

Fourth Saylor Lake Stocking Planned

The Saylor Lake Fishing Assn. will stock Saylor Lake with 1,000 trout, Saturday at 4 p. m. Fishing will resume at 5 a. m. Sunday. The stocking is the fourth of the season.

Al Jacks, Penn State quarterback from 1956 through 1958, will join the football coaching staff at Slippery Rock State College in September as an assistant coach.

One of the top passers in Penn State history, Jacks completed 96 of 265 aerials for 1,147 yards and nine touchdowns during his collegiate career.

He enjoyed his best year in 1957, when he fired 53 strikes in 103 attempts for 673 yards and five touchdowns.

He served as assistant freshman coach at Penn State last year, while pursuing graduate studies.

Video Tape Bogied Open Golf

The use of video tape for golf matches is an excellent thing, it eliminates the wasted time when there is no one in action on the three holes usually televised.

But the television job on the U. S. Open Saturday, got so complicated near the end that it was hard to understand which player was leading.

Chick Hearn, who handled the mike, had Arnold Palmer and Mike Souchak tied, with Palmer going into the last hole and Souchak supposedly still on the course.

Then when Palmer hit his second shot on the back apron of the 18th green, chipped up for a three-footer and canned the putt, Hearn announced that Palmer was the new U. S. Open champ.

Souchak, who had not been shown during the hour broadcast, was not heard from again, leaving the impression that maybe after those disastrous opening holes on the first round, he had gone fishing.

Big Frame Gives L-M Indy Win

LINE MATERIAL, with a fifteen-run third inning, swamped Patterson-Kelly 20-13 in the Industrial League at Kulp's field last night.

Patterson-Kelly had two four-run innings of its own, and its pitcher Bill Metzger picked up four hits, but the Line-men overpowered them in the third.

Bangor's Mack Picks College

RON MACK, Bangor High School, three sport athlete, has accepted a full scholarship to Montana State College, Bozeman, Mont.

Mack who won all-state honorable mention football honors, graduated from Bangor last week.

He also won letters in basketball and track. He was chosen on the 1959 Wigwam Wisconsin All-American High School football squad.

Rain Cancels Feature Race

RAIN washed out the feature race at the Nazareth Fairgrounds last night.

Four heat dashes were run before the rain hit, however, Russ Anner, Leighton, John Bright, Hellettown, Lee Levingood, Walnutport and Del Haven, Slatington, captured heat victories.

Two 25-lap features will be run next Thursday to make up for the rain-out race.

Phils Leave Cellar With 4-3 Decision

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rookie outfielder Ken Walters smashed his seventh home run of the season in the eighth inning Thursday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Connie Mack Stadium.

It was the revitalized Phillies' fifth consecutive win and enabled them to move into seventh place in the National League ahead of the slumping Cubs by six points.

Morehead Victim Walters' blast, off Seth Morehead into the left field upper deck, broke a 3-3 deadlock to provide relief pitcher Dick Farrell with his fifth mound triumph. He replaced rookie Dallas Green in the seventh.

Kinder To Head Pro Golf Group

SAM KINDER, Glen Brook Country Club golf professional, scored a double victory Thursday.

He was elected president of the newly formed Pocono Professional Golfers' Assn., at the group's first meeting at Tamiment last night and earlier he teamed with Water Gap pro Walt Thiel, to win the pro-golf tournament with a best-ball four-under par 68.

Harry Obitz and Dick Farley, of Shawnee Inn, were second in the tourney with a best-ball 70, while John Chimenti and Vince Yanovitch, also of Shawnee finished third with 74.

Other area scores included Jack Weingart and Bill DeAngelis, Tamiment, 75; Ray Lambert, Mountain Manor and Bob Kidd, Moscow, 77; and Ronnie Ward, and Bob Joyce, Shawnee, 77.

Kinder, Monday who missed by four strokes, qualified for the 10th hole for his four under par addition to the team.

Longo Veep Additional officers elected at the meeting were, Farley, vice president and Tony Longo, Park Summit, secretary-treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Weingart, Thiel, Kidd and John Bishop, Milford. Obitz will serve as the group's advisor.

Ted Beadle, Buck Hill, is the only other area pro in the group. The PPGA, set-up to promote golf in the area, will run a tournament league for member-club head pros and their assistants. The schedule includes numerous pro-amateur events.

The next tournament is scheduled for Shawnee on July 7.

South Africa Leads

Palmer-Snead Duo Second In Canada Cup Matches

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTSMOUTH, Ireland (AP)—Gary Player, gasping and near collapse from asthmatic spasm, groped around Portsmouth in a record-shattering 65 Thursday.

It sent the ailing South African group into a three-stroke, first-round lead over the favored American team of Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead in the International Canada Cup Golf Matches.

Player's fantastic seven-under-par round, coupled with a 72 by a doddering, crippled Bobby Locke, gave the South Africans an opening team total of 137, shading the highly rated Yanks, in second place.

U. S. Total 140 Palmer with a 69 and Snead with a 71 made the U.S. total 140.

Player had to take an injection to relieve severe chest congestion before leaving the tee after a half-hour's grace, Locke, nearly killed four months ago in an automobile accident near Cape Town, played with only one good eye and on wobbly legs that appeared ready to crumble at any moment.

Palmer, the U.S. Masters and Open champion, fired a 69 despite a show of temperance and frequent squabbles with camera bugs.

Portsmouth's 7,093 yards took a good licking from the world's top professionals in bright sunshine and brought forth tricky, changing winds. Par is 36-36-72.

Behind the South Africans and the Americans came the Belgium team at 142 mainly on Flory Van Donck's brilliant 68, followed by Ireland and Scotland in a tie at 143, another surprise from Argentina at 144, Wales and Italy deadlocked at 145 and Canada standing alone at 146.

Bankers Tie Elks 5-5 In S-Burg

ELKS and First Stroudsburg National Bank battled to a 5-5 tie in a Stroudsburg Little League game that was called at the end of the seven innings because of darkness.

The game will be replayed on June 29.

The Elks managed only four hits but one was a grand slam homerun in the sixth by Danny Cahn.

The Bankers collected eight hits, two each by Meyer, Chanaca and Yost.

Yanks Lose On Homer By Maxwell

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell slugged Ryne Duren's second pitch into the upper right field seats leading off in the ninth inning Thursday and gave Detroit a 2-1 decision over the New York Yankees.

The home run was Maxwell's 11th of the season and broke the Tigers' four-game losing streak. It also ended a six-game Yankee winning streak.

Duren, fast-balling ace of the Yankee relief corps, whizzed a called strike past Maxwell, but the second pitch was left high and Maxwell socked it 10 rows into the upper deck.

Moss Wins Don Mossi survived several scares and picked up his fourth victory. He spaced nine hits.

He and Bob Turley had a tense duel going for seven innings. But Turley was lifted for a pinch batter in the eighth, Gil McDougald batted for Turley and doubled to right center. He scored New York's only run when Hector Lopez lined his third single to center.

New York 000 000 010—1 9 0
Detroit 000 001 001—2 6 0

Turley, Grba (8), Duren (9) and Howard; Mossi and Berberet, W.—Mossi (4-5). L.—Duren (2-2).

Home run — Detroit, Maxwell (11).

Giants Lose 5th Straight To Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Eddie Mathews blasted a pair of two-run homers as the Milwaukee Braves completed a sweep of a four-game series by humbling San Francisco 8-4 Thursday with the help of four Giants' errors permitting six unearned runs.

Veteran right-hander Sam Jones, who was bagged with a loss in relief Tuesday night, was the victim of the Giants' shabby infield play as he suffered his seventh defeat compared with nine victories.

It was the Giants' 5th straight loss and 9th in the past 11 games.

Home runs — San Francisco, Bressoud (2), Schmidt (2), Milwaukee, Mathews (2) (16).

Kline had yielded only one run and four hits while fanning four going into the eighth inning. He retired the first two batters then walked a man — his third of the game. St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus immediately yanked Kline and called McDaniell to the mound.

McDaniell gave up a single before retiring the side. He set the Pirates down in order in the ninth.

Kline's season record now stands at three victories and six defeats.

Three Seeded Players Gain Fourth Round At Wimbledon

By TOM OCHILTREE
Associated Press Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The three top seeds in the men's singles—America's Barry MacKay and Australia's Neale Fraser and Rod Laver—skidded their way Thursday into the fourth round of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championship.

They won their matches on courts made as slick as ice rinks by intermittent rain and maintained their concentration despite repeated interruptions of play.

MacKay, from Dayton, Ohio, hammered down Ulf Schmidt of Sweden 6-4, 6-3, 11-9. MacKay is seeded third behind Fraser and Laver.

Breaks Service

Games in the third round set paired with service to 9-11 until MacKay broke through in the 19th game. In the final game MacKay banged in two successive aces for a 40-15 edge and the disheartened Swede netted the match point.

MacKay said the three rain-dictated halts in the match did not bother him. He added: "You have to expect a day of rain in the two weeks of Wimbledon."

Fraser and Laver—the two Australian left-handers—both had a more difficult passage than MacKay.

Fraser dropped a set to Thomas Lejus, 13-year-old from the Soviet Union. Fraser took the match 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Foot fault calls unsettled Fraser in the third set and he added to his troubles with loose volleys. Laver, runner-up last year, had difficulty keeping his feet in his first set with Manuel Santana of Spain. Once he found his balance he ran out the match by 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Earl (Butch) Buchholz, the eighth seed from St. Louis, led Australia's Bob Mark 6-4, 15-13, when their match on the center court was postponed because of falling light. The match will be completed Friday.

Age Hurts

The years finally caught up with Gardner Mulloy, the early star of the tourney. The 46-year-old Floridian was eliminated in the third round by Australia's Don Candy, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2.

Jack Frost from Monterey, Calif., also got to the fourth round with a workmanlike 7-5, 6-4, 1-4 victory over Istvan Gulyas of Hungary.

Three American girls—second-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., Janet Hopps of Seattle, and Karen Hantze of San Diego—easily moved into the fourth round in the women's singles.

Miss Hard eliminated Frances Wulton of Britain 6-1, 6-0. Miss Hopps defeated Florence de la Courtie of France 6-4, ydl. Miss Hantze had little difficulty defeating glamorous Antoinette Nenot of France, 6-2, 6-1.

Brazil's Maria Bueno, the defending queen, coasted to a 6-2, 6-1 triumph over little Tune Schirmer of Norway.

All Philly Fans Need Scorecard

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The youngsters under the ball park shouted, "Get your score card, you can't tell the players without a score card."

In the case of the Philadelphia Phillies, this hawker wasn't just beating his gums. Any fan who hasn't been paying close attention to the Phillies' rebuilding program is "lost" at Connie Mack Stadium.

General Manager John Quinn has revamped the club with the accent on youth. The Phillies, National League champions in 1950 with a cast of youngsters known as the Whiz Kids are pegging their comeback attempt on Gee Whiz Kids.

Roberts Oldest

As a result of recent trades, sales and releases, the club now average 26 years. The old gaffer of the clubhouse is none other than 33-year-old Robin Roberts. Relief pitcher Humberto Robinson is the only other player out of his 20s, and he is 30. There isn't a starter who was on last year's team.

"We want young, aggressive, hungry ball players," says Quinn, the baseball executive who helped build the Milwaukee Braves into a perennial pennant contender.

Quinn has revamped his scouting staff, hiring a number of hunters who previously worked for the Braves. He has told them he wants youngsters who can run like the wind, throw hard, and hit the long ball. As a counselor of his kindergarden, Quinn brought in one of baseball's youngest managers, 34-year-old Gene Mauch.

"We're going with the kids," echo Quinn and Mauch. "It may take a few years but they end result is worth the wait," they say.

Young Starters
Mauch can start a team which averages 27 years—Jim Coker or Clay Dalrymple, both 26, behind the plate; Frank Herrera, 26, 1b; Tony Taylor, 24, 2b; Ruben Amaro, 24, 3b; Joe Morgan, 29, 3b; Tony Curry, 21, If; John Callison, 21, cf, and Ken Walters, 27, rf. Then there are Tony Gonzalez, 23, Bobby Del Grako, 27; Bobby Gene Smith, 26, and a host of young pitchers ready for action.

The difference between the kids and the veterans we have disposed of," commented a Phillies spokesman, "is that the youngsters don't say 'you're not supposed to hit Sam Jones.' Lew Barette, Don Drysdale, Warren Spahn, Vernon Law etc. So they do."

What is comforting to Quinn and Coker and eighth-place Phillies. The vices they are headed in the right direction is the attitude of the fans. Last Tuesday, 26,233 turned out for a two-night double-header between the seventh-place Cubs and eighth-place Phillies.

Record Audience Hears Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—American Broadcasting Co. officials claim an audience of 50,820,000, largest ever to hear a sports or entertainment program on radio, heard the radio account of Monday's Floyd Patterson vs. a former Johansson heavyweight match.

Robert Pauley, vice president in charge of the ABC radio network, said a Trendex survey of 100 cities produced the record count. The broadcast was carried over 43 stations. ABC also said it had larger than any audience it had ever had for a television fight.

Tribe Shades Nats

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators, 7-6, on an unearned run Thursday to sweep the three-game series.

The winning run was scored off Truman Clevenger, the last of four Washington pitchers, after he had retired the first two batters in the eighth inning. Pinch-hitter Chuck Tanner drew a walk and Jim Perry ran for him. John Temple singled to right field, sending Perry to third, and when Bob Allison made a wild throw to third, Perry went home with the winning run.

The loss gave Clevenger a 1-4 record for the season. The winner was John Briggs, the fourth of five Cleveland pitchers, who now has a 3-1 record, all in relief.

31 Starter, Barry Latman, for the Indians was followed to the mound by Gary Bell, Johnny Klippstein, Briggs and Dick Stigman.

Washington on 300 001 200-6 11 1 Cleveland 001 002 31x-7 13 1 Stobbs, Moore (6), Woodchick (7), Clevenger (7) and Battey; Latman, Bell (6), Klippstein (7), Briggs (8), Stigman (9), Romano, W-Briggs (3-1), L-Clevenger (1-4).

Canada Raps U.S. Hunters

WASAGMING, Man. (AP)—Delegates to the western Canada-Yukon Fish and Game Council meeting Wednesday night criticized U.S. hunting laws while hunting in Canada.

Resolutions were passed condemning the practices of hunting or spotting game by aircraft and the removal to the United States of fish and game exceeding lawful limits.

Low Barker, Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers representative, said Americans are checked by border officials only when entering Canada, and are taking fish catches to the United States far over the limit.

Olympic Group To See Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII will grant two big audiences for Olympic Games athletes and officials, the Vatican announced Thursday.

The first audience, at the Vatican, will be open to all athletes, team officials and newsmen in Rome for the Olympics. The audience will be held Aug. 24, the day before the games open.

A second will be granted at the summer palace at Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles south of Rome, on Aug. 29 for members of the International Olympic Committee.

AS 3-60 GALLON STANDARD

A diagram of a vertical cylindrical tank, likely representing a water heater. An arrow points upwards from the bottom of the tank, passing through several horizontal layers or segments. The arrow's path is labeled with numbers: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30. This suggests a measurement of time or cycles per gallon.
